TU Dublin – A New University for A Changing Ireland

TU Dublin is Ireland's first Technological University - an exciting new milestone in Irish Higher Education. With campuses in Dublin City, Tallaght and Blanchardstown, it spans the largest population centres of Ireland's capital city. Building on the rich heritage of its founding organisations - DIT, IT Blanchardstown and IT Tallaght – TU Dublin will be inclusive and adaptable, creating educational opportunities for students at all stages of their lives.

Academic excellence in science, the arts, business, engineering and technology converge in TU Dublin to create the leaders of tomorrow. Our 28,500 students learn in a practice-based environment informed by the latest research and enabled by technological advances, with pathways to graduation from Apprenticeship to PhD.

Our thriving research community is engaged in applying innovation and technology to solve the world's most pressing challenges, collaborating with our national and international academic partners and our many networks in industry and civic society.

Dedicated staff offer an inclusive and welcoming learning experience and TU Dublin students develop as socially responsible, open-minded global thinkers who are ambitious to change the world for the better. As graduates, they will be enterprising and daring in all their endeavours, ready to play their part in transforming the future.

The Opportunity:

Established on the 1st January 2019, Technological University Dublin represents a significant step-change in the Higher Education landscape of Ireland. Building on the excellence of its three founding institutions, TU Dublin is the result of a shared vision and a collaborative journey towards building an internationally renowned Technological University.

Now, more than the sum of its parts, this exciting new University has the opportunity to have real impact. Known for academic excellence that is practice-based and research-informed, TU Dublin will engage with regional, national and global constituencies through research, innovation and enterprise. The University will deliver meaningful outcomes across the wider socio-economic environment by addressing challenges that have technological, economic and societal import.

In setting out to achieve its vision, TU Dublin aims to do so in a way that is collaborative and inclusive, but also dynamic and pioneering. Guided by values of integrity and openness, it will be daring and proactive, confident that both the University and its students have the potential to make a real difference - in the Dublin region and in the wider world.

The unique breadth of programme offerings in TU Dublin, combined with close engagement with industry and the professions, means that the experiential model of taught programme delivery, ranging from Apprenticeships through to Masters programmes, is second to none. Research Masters and PhD programmes play a role in establishing new knowledge and insights, while industry-based research degrees further inform the educational mission.

In the Irish University landscape, the distinguishing feature of TU Dublin is its ability to leverage its industry engagement across all levels of teaching and research, enhancing the learning experience and driving the academic reputation.

Challenges:

Although a very new University, TU Dublin already has depth, reputation and the richness of the traditions of its founder institutions. These will form the scaffolding for the new institution, while the integration of policies, procedures and operational processes takes place internally. In tandem with this, a significant campaign of external stakeholder engagement is required to introduce TU Dublin to a wide range of audiences. This must include industry and policy-makers; alumni and prospective students; state bodies and not-for-profit NGO's; as well as academia in Ireland and globally. It must also include the wider Irish public. The objective must be to create an understanding of what is now a new University model in Ireland, but one that has produced exemplary Technological Universities throughout Europe, Australia, New Zealand and North America.

Scale:

The significant scale of TU Dublin serves to emphasise its importance in the Higher Education landscape in Ireland. With 28,500 students and a dedicated staff of 3,500, it is probably already the largest university in the country. As a degree-awarding body, TU Dublin attracts students at Level 6 through to Level 10 on the National Framework of Qualifications. Aiming to be inclusive and diverse, TU Dublin welcomes students of all nationalities and backgrounds. Currently 20% of students in the University were born outside of Ireland, while 15% have come through non-standard routes. An educational 'ladder' system enables students to enter and exit at the level that best suits their preparedness for higher education. This system provides students with the best opportunity to achieve their full potential. Many students who begin their studies at Level 6 gain in confidence and are encouraged to progress further than they originally believed they could.

Campus locations:

As a new University TU Dublin is very well served by its three main campuses, spanning the most highly populated areas of the Ireland's capital city.

The Blanchardstown Campus, just 13 km to the northwest of the city centre, was established twenty years ago. Academic and recreational facilities serving over 3,500 students are of a very high standard, including bespoke areas for early childhood studies; horticulture; sports management; and business incubation. The new 'Connect' building, officially opened by An Taoiseach earlier this year, includes both staff offices and student facilities, and further development of the campus is planned.

The Tallaght Campus is situated 12 kms southwest of the city centre. Currently serving a full-time student population of over 5000, the campus has strong and growing part-time student numbers attending a wide range of evening programmes aimed at professional upskilling. Close links have been established with the surrounding community and local industry, while the extensive grounds provide ample room for sporting activity for students and local clubs. Plans are well advanced for the construction of a new facility for Engineering programmes to be in place within the next three years.

In Dublin City centre, 20,000 TU Dublin students are based in a number of locations in the heart of the city. However, development of new flagship campus at Grangegorman in the north inner city is well advanced. The biggest educational project of its kind in Europe, the Grangegorman Campus is located on an exceptional 73-acre city centre site. The original 19th century buildings at the heart of the site have been beautifully restored and are now in use for students and staff. Two new Quads under construction, comprising 52,000 sq.ms, will welcome 10,000 students and 1000 members of staff in September 2020. The facilities in the East Quad (16,500 sq.ms) will include a 400-seat concert hall, recital rooms and exhibitions spaces that will showcase the work of over 3000 students of music, drama, media and the visual arts. The 35,000sq m. Central Quad will include state-of-the-art laboratories for a range of science disciplines; kitchens and training restaurant for culinary arts and hospitality; and some of the largest teaching spaces on the campus, including a 250-seat lecture theatre. The next phase of construction will commence in mid-2020 and will deliver the West Quad to accommodate 5000 students of Business, and the Academic Hub which will see the development of an iconic library building incorporating ancillary facilities. A final phase will see the development of additional research capacity and the remaining disciplines, predominate
